The Daily Courant.

Monday, August 2. 1714.

ESSEX.

To the Queen's most Excellent Majesty.
The humble Address of the High Sheriff, Grand-Jury, Justices of the Peace and Gentlemen of the said County, at the Assizes held July 14, 1714. at Chelmsford in Essex.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

IT is with infinite Satisfaction that we return your Majesty our unfeigned Thanks for your most gracious Proclamation for Apprehending the Pretender; which, as it must infalibly put a stop to the evil Designs of those, who to deceive your People at home, endeavour to insinuate that our justest Apprehensions are only groundless Suspensions, so we doubt not but that the Concurrence of both Houses of Parliament in these Sentiments with your Majesty, will be sufficient to convince the World abroad, that the little Regard which has been shewn to your Instances in Lorrain, is a Treatment your Subjects will always Resent with the utmost Contempt and Indignation.

And though we at present labour under the Disadvantages of an almost general decay of Trade, yet we of this County in particular beg Leave to assure your Majesty, that no Difficulties shall discourage us from heartily uniting to promote those Measures which shall be judged proper for the Support of your Honour and Safety; the Improvement of Commerce; the Preservation of the Church of England as by Law Establish'd; and the Security of the Protestant Succession in the Illustrious House of Hanover: And that we will in our several Stations, as much as in us lies, endeavour to curb the Insolence of Papists and Nonjurors, and to defeat the Hopes of the Pretender.

London, August 2.

On Friday the 30th of July Her Majesty Queen Anne was taken so very ill at Kensington, that it was thought necessary to assemble the Privy-Council there. And Her Majesty's Illness continuing without Hopes of Recovery, Orders were issued by the Council to the Lord-Mayor to take Care of the Peace of the City by summoning the Lieutenancy, who ordered out the Train-bands: The Militia of the Hamlets were likewise ordered out. The Lords of the Admiralty (by Order of the Council) dispatched Directions for fitting out as many Men of War as can soonest be got ready.
A Letter, Signed by all the Council, was on Saturday Morning sent Express by James

Craggs, Esq; Junior, to desire his Electoral Highness of Brunswick to be pleased to hasten over hither. Orders were also sent to all the military Officers of Great-Britain &c, to repair to their respective Posts, to see that no Disturbance be offered to the publick Tranquility. Order was also sent to the Earl of Strafford, to desire the States-General to get ready to perform the Treaty of Guarantie of the Protestant Succession, if Need shall require. Also Orders were sent for some Battallions to come over immediately from Flanders. Yesterday Morning a little after 7 a Clock Her Majesty died. Immediately, the List of Lords whom his Electoral Highness of Brunswick had chosen to be added to the Seven great Officers of the Kingdom, was produced by the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, (who on this extraordinary Occasion came over, notwithstanding his ill State of Health, to St James's,) the Lord Chancellor, and Mr. Kraien-berg Resident of Brunswick, and was found to be written in his Electoral Highness's own Hand, as follows,
